SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the year of 1947, a journey, which would last at least twelve years, was started by a group of 48. This journey, as they later discovered, would be the most important event of their lives.

The first years, the group, now called students, were taught how to get along with one another. They were also taught readin', 'riting, and 'rithmetic, along with simple English. So the years went by and the students were given harder and more complex subjects to learn.

Then in the year of 1958, this fine specimen of students was given a chance to show their ability and talent, by being permitted to produce the play, You Can't Fool Grandma. This was such a big sucess that the following year they reappeared with another, The Phantom Bells.

Now, in 1959, we find that part of the students have completed their twelve year journey. Some of the unlucky ones will have to remain longer, but they are willing to finish the journey they started in 1947. The remainder either quit or moved to other schools.

Now, in the coming spring, 26 students of the 48 group will take the last steps of their journey wearing proudly their blue caps and gowns.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

It's time again to take our yearly trip into the future. It's the year 1970. Springtime is blooming and we can see J. E. working in the Thrift Food Center on the moon. Kent is working for the government, but he doesn't get paid for it. Cecil and Nancy are married now, they have two sets of twins. Paul shot himself in the big toe with his bow and arrow. Cora has stopped wrecking "Chevys," because they have automatic pilots now. Hoyle is in Mexico. He has changed his name to "Antonio."

It's summer now and we are in Europe. Roy is still arguing over the Second World War. Neil has finally grown a beard. He's as interpreter for the President. Pat is modeling boots for the Russians. Joe is hauling produce to China. Perry is a French Chef. He goes by the name of "Pierre." Glenn has decided that, since Carl Storie is out of shotgun shells, he will date Janette regularly now.

Back in the U. S. it's fall and Jewell is helping Clay with his sawmill. I understand it's a profitable business these days. There goes "Boots" Craig with his '49 Chevrolet. By-the-way, he outran Gordon last night. Robert and Gail own a train company called the Aho-Global. Look closely now and you can see Sue. She has seven children gathered around her. Dare is her house maid.

The snow is blowing and we are in Alaska. Richard and Gail finally got married and have a home here. Dana is helping some beautiful Eskimo clean a whale. Mary has finally latched some fellow and settled down. Here comes Jim with his Autocar. I'm going to thumb a ride back home to Hot Spings.
